BY THE NUMBERS

The Reality We Don't Talk About

These aren't just statistics. Every number represents someone who didn't make it home.

1.6M

Car crashes per year in the U.S. involve cell phone use, that's 1 in every 4 accidents on our roads.

39 min

One person is killed in a drunk driving crash every 39 minutes in the United States. Every. 39. Minutes.

25%

Of teen drivers admit to responding to a text at least once every time they drive. Most never thought it would happen to them.

100%

Of distracted and drunk driving deaths are preventable. Not most. Not some. Every single one.

WHY IT MATTERS

The Gap Between Knowing and Doing

Most people already know distracted and drunk driving is dangerous. The problem isn't information, it's the split-second decision when the phone buzzes or the keys are already in your hand.

> "Nobody gets in their car planning to be the last text message someone ever receives. Silence isn't neutrality. Silence is permission. Say something."

Make the Pledge

MAKE A COMMITMENT

The Arrive Alive Pledge

It takes less than a minute to commit to something that could save your life or someone else's.

1

Put the phone away

Before you start the car, place your phone in your bag, glove box, or backseat. Out of sight means out of temptation.

2

Plan ahead

If you're drinking, arrange a ride before you start. Designate a driver. Use Uber or Lyft. There is always a better option.

3

Speak up

If you're in a car with a distracted or impaired driver, say something. It's awkward exactly once. A funeral is forever.

4

Share the message

Tell a friend. Post it. The more people who commit, the more lives we save. Change starts with one conversation.

I Pledge to Arrive Alive

STAY SAFE

Practical Ways to Protect Yourself

Small habits make a massive difference every time you get behind the wheel.

Enable Do Not Disturb While Driving

Both iPhone and Android have built-in driving modes that silence notifications automatically when in motion. Turn it on and leave it on.

Set Your Music Before You Move

Queue your playlist or navigation before you put the car in drive. Adjusting settings while moving is just as dangerous as texting.

Rideshare Is Always an Option

There is no situation where a $15 Uber isn't worth it. Program the app before you go out, not after you've already been drinking.

Be the Friend Who Says Something

If someone is about to drive impaired or distracted, take the keys. Offer to drive. Call a ride. Real friends don't stay silent.

That Text Can Wait

Whatever that message says, it will still be there when you park. No notification, no reply, no update is worth your life.

Know Your Limits, Then Cut Them in Half

Impairment starts before you feel drunk. Reaction time slows and overconfidence rises, often before you notice it happening.
